LUMBER LOOKS AHEAD TO GOOD YEAR IN '56

By Lawrence D. Kellogg, President, National Lumber Manufacturers Association, Washington, D. C.

Next year will be a good year to buy lumber.

Lumber is one of the few major building materials in plentiful supply, and the current supply is backed up by an increasing surplus of forest growth over timber being cut.

There will be good buys, especially in the do-it-yourself market in which a rapidly growing number of experienced home craftsmen have learned to get the most out of economy grades, "shorts" and other bargain lumber for both utility and decorative value.

Millions of Americans will buy lumber in 1956 and they have the assurance that they can get the right grade for the right use.

Both nature and the law of supply and demand have operated to bring about these favorable market conditions. Wood is our only renewable resource. Private forestry enterprises, confident of a continuing and growing demand for lumber, is renewing this resource at an unprecedented rate.

Many Americans may be surprised to learn that if it were not for insects, fire and other destruction, the cubic volume growth of all timber would now be 60 per cent greater than the cut. As it is, growth—less the loss to destructive elements—exceeds the amount cut by 32 per cent.

Also, sawtimber (timber large enough for sawlogs) that was cut and lost to destructive elements exceeded growth by 60 per cent ten years ago. There has been a trend.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

1955 is almost history now. In looking back over the year, I can see some of my many errors, yet in spite of these perhaps some things have been accomplished. We perhaps should note the rebuilding of Philbrook and Park Streets. The replacement of Meadow Brook Bridge, new shed at the Town garage lot and the Mercury Vapor lights now on trial. Improvement of East Bethel road and some of those leading off it. These things are of course only possible to do with your tax dollars.

Do you wish to purchase a new pumper at this time for the Fire Dept.? Town meeting Friday at eight o'clock in the evening to decide. This is your choice.

1956 is just ahead. What do you want in 1956? Rebuilding of Elm St. as well as some others that need attention? Do you wish to improve the street lights in town? I believe some improvement can be made without any additional cost.

I feel certain that it is the wish of the Town officials, and those of us in your employ in the Town office to carry out your wishes and desires to make Bethel a better place in which to live and to enjoy that living.

Happy New Year.

O. T. Rozelle

D. GROVER BROOKS

D. Grover Brooks passed away early Saturday morning, Dec. 24, at his home on Main Street.

He was born in Upton April 9, 1892, the son of Aldana and Mary King Brooks. He received his education in the Upton schools, Gould Academy, and Burdett Business College, Boston.

In 1917 he purchased the hardware store and building of the late N. F. Brown, which he closed when called into the service in May, 1918. He served with the machine gun company, 109th Infantry, at St. Mihiel, France, where he was wounded on Sept. 6, 1918.

He married Miss Alice Elita Joy of South Berwick on July 2, 1919, and that month reopened his store here, which with Mrs. Brooks' lifelong cooperation developed into one of the largest businesses of its kind in Western Maine. Mrs. Brooks' death occurred on Nov. 21, 1954.

Since 1946 his son, Dana, has been associated with him in the business, and two years ago the other son, Donald, joined. With the addition of the gas and fuel oil business last year the corporation of Brooks Brothers, Inc., was formed, which was extended this year to include the entire concern as carried on under Mr. Brooks' name.

Mr. Brooks' life in Bethel has been one of active participation in the town's interests. He cheerfully accepted offices and assumed duties which consumed much of his time. These included several years in these positions: Town Treasurer, Deputy Town Clerk, Bethel Village Corporation Assessor, Clerk and Treasurer. For many years he served as treasurer of the local Red Cross fund.

Since January 1950 he had been treasurer of the Bethel Savings Bank, and previously had been president for several years.

He was a past master of Bethel Lodge, F. & A. M., and a past patron of Purity Chapter, O. E. S.; a member of Mundi-Allen Post, American Legion; and Kora Temple.

Survivors include two sons, Dana and Donald, of Bethel; a brother, Gerry, of Bethel; a sister, Mrs. Agnes Twaddle, of Augusta; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Greenleaf funeral home, the Rev. Charles Pendleton officiating. Interment was in Riverside Cemetery.

WANDA LEE WATERHOUSE

Wanda Lee Waterhouse, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Waterhouse of Bethel, died last Thursday at the Rumford Hospital.

Survivors besides her parents are a brother, Edward; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Waterhouse of Bethel, and Mrs. Earlon Knight of Clinton, Mass.; and several uncles and aunts.

Private services were held Saturday morning at the Greenleaf funeral home.

Mrs. Stanley Coolidge and daughter Carol and Mrs. Linwood Felt and three children went to Augusta Friday, bringing back with them their mother, Mrs. Lena Cushman, for the holidays.

Mrs. Constance Alger, who lives at the Marcotte Home, Lewiston, and her son, Col. James Alger of Washington, spent Christmas at their home at Bryant Pond.

At the meeting of the Bethel Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday evening, Paul C. Thurston, chairman of the Maine Turnpike Authority, will speak on the Turnpike.

Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Felt and family entertained Mrs. George Cushman, Augusta, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Coolidge and Carol, Christmas eve to a Christmas dinner and tree.

COFFEE SAFE DRINK FOR HOLIDAY DRIVERS

"Gasoline and coffee are good mixers for safe and sane holiday driving," Leroy T. Snowdon, executive secretary of the Maine Petroleum Industries Committee, said today. He asked motorists to "make coffee the one for the road" during the three-day New Year's week end.

Last year 296 people died on the New Year's week end, Snowdon said. "Don't let your toast to a Happy New Year be a salute to disaster and tragedy," he warned.

He urged particular care at night, pointing out that nearly 3 out of 5 deaths occur during the hours of darkness. Observing that 40 percent of all traffic deaths occur on week ends, he said that highway accident figures show that the most dangerous day of the week is Saturday.

"When we think that New Year's Eve will be on Saturday night, it gives you something to think about," Snowdon said. He offered this advice as part of the Petroleum Industry's Highway Safety Program: "Gasoline and liquor don't mix. But gasoline and coffee are the best holiday mixers for a Happy New Year."

CONNER SUPERINTENDENT OF BUILDINGS AT BETHEL INN

Merton C. Conner of Bethel will assume the post of Superintendent of Buildings for The Bethel Inn properties on January 1, 1956, according to an announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Guy P. Butler, owners-managers of the Inn.

In his new capacity, "Bert," as he is affectionately known by his many friends, will have complete charge of all repairs and maintenance of the several buildings that comprise The Bethel Inn and The Bethel Inn Beach Club at Songo Lake in Albany Township. During the next few months he will devote a considerable part of his time to an extensive remodeling and modernization of the Straw House on Broad St.

In making the announcement, Mr. and Mrs. Butler stated that, in line with their avowed intention of keeping the Inn properties in top-notch condition at all times, it seemed highly desirable to have one full-time, year round man of Bert's calibre fully responsible for the buildings on an equal standing with the Superintendent of Grounds. This other very important post has been ably handled by another popular Bethelite, Edward R. "Ted" Swan for several years past.

Both men, along with LeRoy G. Bennett, the Inn's engineer, have enviable records for quality and length of service at the Inn under the previous ownership; and, in the opinion of the present owners, deserve much of the credit for the excellent condition in which the entire property has been maintained throughout the years.

Mrs. A. Van Den Kerckhoven and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tikander entertained at a family Christmas party at their home on Christmas night. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Van Den Kerckhoven, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Van Den Kerckhoven and daughter Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Tenney and children, Melvin Jr. and Elizabeth Anne, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merrill, Miss Jackie MacFarlane, Boston, and William Wilkins, Quincy, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Tikander, South Paris, Mrs. A. Van Den Kerckhoven and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tikander.

 IS KID STUFF!

Thursday, December 29

Read Matthew 20:1-16.
The last shall be first, and the first last. (Matthew 20:16.)

ONE day the mother of twelve children was asked: "Surely with so many children, you must have favorites among them, do you not?" The mother smiled gently and replied, "Of course. All twelve, imps and angels alike, are my favorites."

That is how God looks upon us. He loves a new convert to His faith fully as much as he loved St. Francis of Assisi. God loves the worst sinner, although He hates his sins and wrongdoing. He loves you as a Christian just as much as He did Paul, or as He loves the oldest saint in your church. God plays no favorites. The earliest Christian is as dear to Him as the one being born this moment into the kingdom. He loves that newly born one fully as much as He does the holiest preacher in the land. He loves us all and is sorry for our misdoings. God loves us for what we are. Our task is to make our selves, in the strength of Christ, as worthy as we can of His love.

Prayer
O Lord, Thou hast blessed each of us with the benediction of Thy love. Help us to be worthy of Thy love. To that end nurture us in Christ to the honor and glory of Thy name. For the Master's sake. Amen.

A—Yes. The fact that your husband used his GI loan benefit would not serve to prevent you from getting a GI loan in your own right.

Q—I am taking farm training under the Korean GI Bill. I know that I must train full time, but is there any rule against doing a little outside work if it doesn't interfere with my training?

A—You may work for pay outside of your training, so long as you do not put in more than 160 hrs. during any 12-month period, and so long as the school finds that your outside work does not interfere with your studies.

WINTER IS GOOD TIME FOR SEASONING TIMBER

Winter is a good time for seasoning timber because it will season more slowly at this time of year and with less checking (cracking) than during the warmer months. Also, insects and fungi which attack freshly cut wood are less active during the winter. Contrary to popular belief, it's not when you cut timber, but how well you season it that counts in getting the greatest value from posts, poles, and logs. The common belief that timber should be cut "when the sap is down" is not supported by the facts, says Lewis P. Bissell, Maine Extension Service forestry specialist. There's practically no difference in moisture content of green wood in winter and summer. Peeling bark, of course, is easier in the spring.

Conservation Farming in Oxford County

by Douglas L. Marston
Soil Conservation Service

The United States Forest Service recently released a preliminary Timber Resource Review. These were the findings from studies made to see how our timber supply was standing up under the heavy cutting that has been carried on to meet the demand for wood.

The study also indicates that the demand for wood is increasing. Although there has been improvement in the rate of progress of forest management the Review further states that there will have to be a considerably greater increase in better management if we are to meet the timber demands by the year 2000. The Review states that timber growth will have to be from 70 to 120 per cent greater than it is now. The Review also states that about one-quarter of the forest land is poorly stocked or understocked.

To sum this up it would certainly seem that a good growing timber lot was a valuable asset. It would also seem that we cannot afford to have too much land pro-

SUNDAY RIVER

Mrs. R. M. Fleet, Corres.

Richard Onofrio and Toos spent a couple of days with David Fleet. We were fortunate when a pulp truck had a wheel break loose in the covered bridge that the driver was able to get it out as it had ducing nothing but brush or other useless types of wood. If you have idle land growing up to brush maybe it could be planted to good quality seedling trees. If you plan to cut in your present woodlot, maybe a little care in selecting the trees to be cut would leave a sufficient number of young growing trees to keep the area well stocked and continually productive.

Many people seem to think that when cutting in a lot that you must take all trees to make it profitable. This is certainly false reasoning and has resulted in the condition which we find in our forest today.

THE LOW DOWN

FROM HICKORY GROVE

A new item for my "Hickory Encyclopedia of Facts" concerns timber-trees-and how we can stop worrying about what are we gonna do pretty soon about lumber for more houses and for making paper and plywood and corrugated paper or boxes. Twenty five years ago the annual timber removal was 2 times the annual growth. Today the annual timber growth is more than today's annual out. Phenomenal, I call it.

Here's how it happens-heres how the good news. A group of the leaders in the lumber industry got together on a program of reforestation. Private companies they were-the job was at their expense. And this is the first time in recent U S history that the nation is growing more new timber than is being removed by cutting or by destruction by fire, pests or disease.

This performance is another example of what private initiative can do for us. The item should not be allowed to be passed over without some sort of good word to to stay beside the road from Friday until Tuesday.

The Yates family tree was at their daughter's at West Bethel, Miles T. Brooks of Gorham, Maine, called on R. M. Fleet's Saturday evening.

Mr and Mrs Angelo Onofrio called on the R. M. Fleet, Tuesday.

Mrs Katie Scott spent the holiday with her mother, Mrs Bertha Bean.

The report is that R. M. Bean is improving after his recent operation and will soon be home.

Mrs Helen Runnels and mother, Mrs Mabel Becker, and Philip and Charles Runnels were in Waterville last Tuesday for glasses for the boys.

"We all recognize the fact that many of us are likely to fall to realize the degree of impaired judgment and dulling of attention which results from the consumption of alcohol," they continued. "Tests have demonstrated that long before physical incoordination sets in, the brain's seat of judgment is depressed. This makes it difficult for the individual to determine accurately his own condition. Frequently, a feeling of well-being and over-confidence leads him to believe that he can do all things well—including driving."

"If over a fellow needs a friend, he needs one at such a time," the committee added. "A true friend will not worry about possible resentment on the part of the one who insists upon driving in such a condition. He will be very definite in his efforts to persuade him not to drive."

"Nobody enjoys being considered an 'old fogey' or a 'killjoy,'" they concluded, "and this is the charge often leveled at people who have courage enough to follow this course of action. Nevertheless, they are, in reality, better friends than those who feel the same way but who lack the courage to say so."

"Don't be afraid to be your brother's keeper."

menhous change for the better, and today sawtimber growth is practically in balance with cut and loss.

We now have 489 million acres of forest land, compared with 491 million acres ten years ago. And we have 2,094 billion board feet of sawtimber, compared with 1,601 billion board feet ten years ago.

This re-appraisal of our timber resources, its facts repudiating many past prophecies of a timber famine, was made this year by the U. S. Forest Service.

Such a marked trend to greater lumber supply is still more impressive in view of the fact that lumber production this year—38.5 billion board feet—was the largest since 1910, according to year-end estimates.

Growing lumber as a crop has become more feasible than ever before as a result of progress in lumber manufacturing methods. There was once a fear that someday we would run out of large timbers. Now we do not have to wait for trees to grow to giant size. Ordinary sizes of seasoned, defect-free lumber are glued together to provide superior timbers of any size or shape or finish specified by engineers, architects and builders.

This type of progress, in forest management and in manufacturing method, is a matter of economics. It results from market demand—the fact that lumber continues as the preferred material for home building and many other types of construction.

Although it is believed that housing starts in 1956 will decline about 100,000 below the estimated 1.3 million starts for 1955, private residential construction is expected to amount to a record $14.6 billion, or about a third of all new construction in dollar volume.

This should mean that home building next year will use about 12 billion board feet, roughly one-third of the average annual lumber production in recent years. The trend continues to bigger and better houses, accounting in part for the larger dollar volume despite fewer houses started. The better quality houses today is characterized by use of wood for fine finish effects. Wood ceilings, wood panel walls, wood cabinets and wood floor have become strong sales appeal items. The popularity of hardwood flooring is shown by the fact its production increased about 16 per cent this year over last year.

Foreign markets for lumber are also forecast in commercial and residential building next year, two of the classes of construction expected to show gains over 1955. Modern suburban construction, including factories and schools, promises a heavier use of wood construction. New houses of new design trends and modern appropriateness to suburban settings.

Lumber consumption this year is estimated at 42.5 billion board feet, the highest figure since our Association first began its records on consumption in 1899. This figure includes exports and imports as well as distributors' stocks.

All the evidence points to continuing strong demand, which is the stimulus of future increased production.

Moreover, there's ample lumber for the American consumer—for everything from the builders and prefabricators who buy in quantities of millions of board feet to the do-it-yourselfer who can carry his order home on his shoulder.

Maine delegates have found the Maine State Improvement Association almost a necessity for profitable milk and butterfat production. Records of products and feed the enable farmers to sell and feed according to each cow's producing ability.

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLDTIMERS

From Mrs. John B. Amon, Greenville, Pa.: I remember the "horse and buggy days"—the dust rose in a thin, yellow cloud from around the horses' hoofs and settled on everything far and near. The buggy, our clothing, even the horses' back bore the gritty mask. We tasted it in our mouths, it's smell entered our nostrils to mingle with the sweetness of red and white clover.

We plodded slowly along in the heat of the summer day and as we went we gathered in all the sights, sounds and smell of the country.

No bird flew over that was not commented upon. We smelled wild strawberries and stopped to see if they were ripe, and there, in the corner of an old rail fence we gathered a bouquet of pink wild roses.

We jogged quietly along—looking at farmhouses, gardens, men working in fields, hens wallowing in the dust. When we came to Waterloo, instead of driving over the bridge, we went down the gently sloping bank into Eagle creek, where the horse gets a long cool drink and holds his nose in the water long after he is through drinking, being under the impression that he is fooling us.

What a wonderful experience for a child to sit in a buggy in the middle of a stream and watch the ripples widen and recede into infinity. . . . To see the underside of a bridge and little fish swimming and a bird taking a bath.

Only four miles in the time it now takes to go forty at a moderate speed, but what sounds and impressions were packed into those miles. What unforgettable memories now that water has gone under the bridge indeed, and summer and childhood and the old horse and buggy have gone down some long, dusty road forever.

From Nettie G. Morrow, Eureka Springs, Arkansas: Well do I remember the old-fashioned cupboards, called "sals" in which dishes and foods were kept. In those days, there was forever a rancid odor about kitchens, which no amount of scrubbing with grandma's strongest soap could either remove nor disguise. And I recall with pity, the make-shift methods practiced by our mothers to care for their milk and butter.

In fancy I see the long almir buckets, called "coolers" which were hung in the wells to cool the milk in summers. And when it clattered, how well do I remember my childhood task of churning in an old-time stone churn, big in the middle and little at the top, with a wooden dasher that went "top, splash, splash"—for hours, it seemed to an impatient child. And the constant reminder from mother to keep the flies, which were legion, away from the dasher, for there were no screens in those days.

But the butter was delicious, and the gallons of buttermilk were the staple liquid with meals, except for breakfast.

There used to be an old adage, that a woman could throw out more with a spoon than a man could bring in with a scoop shovel; but she had to. In those days there was no way to prevent spoilage of foods, after they were cooked or removed from cans, except to eat them; and many a hapless young'un was urged to eat unwanted food "to keep it from spoiling."

Baltimore, Md., Daily Record: "Every merchant and manufacturer knows that there is a point of diminishing returns in the process of raising prices. They know too that it is possible to price an article completely out of its potential market. This is a point which a few labor leaders might well take to heart, for labor too can price itself out of its market."

tent influence on the economic state of the nation in the year we are about to begin. They are given full consideration in a forecast of what 1956 will probably bring, which appears in U. S. News & World Report of December 9.

The article begins: "All records for spending are likely to be broken in 1956. After a rapid rise in 1955, the total of spending will average still higher in the year ahead."

"The pattern and direction of that spending, however, probably will change."

The principal fields in which declines are anticipated, the report goes on, are automobile sales and residential construction—due, at least in part, to tighter credit. That, obviously, will leave more money in the hands of consumers for other things—everyday living things, such as clothing and food. It is also believed that there will be much more spending for vacations, travel, and various other desired services.

Total 1956 spending (which is formally known as the gross national product) is put at $392,400,000,000 by U. S. News, as compared with an estimated $387,100,000,000 for 1955. Currently, spending is running at close to the $400,000,000,000 a year rate, but it isn't expected that this will be maintained.

It's interesting to note who will do the spending, and in what amounts. Individuals, the U. S. News forecast says, will account for $258,800,000,000—well over 1955. Business will spend $58,600,000,000—under 1955. Government will enter the picture to the tune of $77,000,000,000—the same figure as in 1954, but some 1,400,000,000 above 1953.
